CARTS AND WAGONS

The Title of an Extended Discussion in the Health Board.

WILLIAM CARNEY RECOMMENDED

To Council for Garbage Collector at His Bid of $18,000-Several Bids Below that Amount Rejected by the Committee-The Marked Differonce Between the New and Old Bids.

Last evening the city health board held a meeting at the city building, which was well attended, seven members being present. Chairman Caddle occupied the chair. The principal business to be transacted was the opening of the bids for hauling the city garbage for the two years commencing May 1. Twenty-four bids were presented, two less than were sent in at the last meeting of the committee, Several of the old bidders were replaced by new men, and altogether there was a marked difference in the amounts for which the bidders thought they could do the work, caused by the determination of the board to have the garbage ordinance enforced to the letter here-after. The comparison shown in the table will prove interesting:

The bidder who y	vas finally	recommended to council is William Carney mended to council is William Carney, who is considered a first class man, and was so referred to by several members of the committee. His bid, however, is $3,000 above those of the McCracken Bros., who are considered competent and reliable. It is said one reason the committee did not recommend one of the McCrackens is that the organized labor interests are "down on them" for handling a boycotted coal the past winter. Several other bidders were also under Carney in their bids.

handling a boycotted coal the past winter. Several other bidders were also under Carney in their bids.

After the bids had been read, Mr. Farrell moved that William Peyton, whose bid of $9,500 is the lowest, be called in, but, as the gentleman was not on hand, that bid was not considered. Mr. Farrelt said Peyton is well qualified to take the contract.

Mr. Richards was of the opinion that it should not be let at $9,500 until the bidder is fully investigated. He had investigated the matter and was of the opinion the work could not be done for less than $13,000. He would not be in favor of letting the contract this evening as matters stood.

At this juncture Mr. Peyton appeared and was questioned by Mr. Farrell, and said he was prepared to secure the necessary horses and carts, and bondsmen. His proposed bondsmen were James Hawley and Walter Marshall. He understood what is wanted, that "the city be kept clean." He was told that it would be necessary to have twelve carts on the work and no wagons. His experience was that wagons could do better service in the central part of the city.

Peyton was interrogated by Chairman Caddle and said he would have to work full on 106 days. He did not know how many miles would have to be traveled, nor how much time would be consumed in going too and from the hill.

WANTED MORE MONEY.

Peyton said if carts are entirely to be used in the work he would want more By using wagons and carts he money. would guarantee to keep the city clean would guarantee to keep the city clean for the amount of his bid. With a wagon, he said he could haul three times as much garbage as in a cart in the crowded and central portions of the city.

The next lowest bidder, J. W. Mc-Gracken, was called; his bid was $9,995 94. His estimate was based on the use of twelve carts. He proposed to use the twelve carts during the summer months and six carts during the remainder of the season. He considered more ground could be covered with carts than with wagons. He had no garbage collecting experience, but had all other more ground could be covered with earts than with wagons. He had no garbage collecting experience, but had all other other kinds of "hauling experience." His suretles would be George Lennmon and J. A. Rosenberg. His estimates of the time he would have his men at work were correct, 100 days. He remarked he could now secure labor very cheap, and would guarantee to do the work satisfactorily. He proposed having two earts at work on the Island daily, on account of the big mileage, ten miles. The heavy garbage wards would, he said, bo the Fifth, Fourth and Second. To Mr. Israel he denied he was "standing in" with another bidder, Thatcher. He saidhead his brother, J. C. McCraeken, who also made a bid, would haudle the work together.

Charles Bocker, the $12,100 man, was next invited into the chamber of investigation.

Charles Becker, the $12,100 man, was next invited into the chamber of inquisition. He had experience when his father was collector. He had nine horses, four wagons and two carts, and understood wagons were to be allowed, but would use carts if necessary. He had not thought of the matter of sureties, but could easily secure them. He was of the opinion one wagon would do evon more work than two carts. He has been running the kelly coal bank, had mader a success of it, and intended to make a success of the garbage contract if he secured it.

The next lowest bidder, Lawrence Clark's bid, was $12,425, but Mr. Richards could see no object in calling in others.

Mr. Farrell moved the hid of William.

Mr. Farrell moved the bid of William Peyton of $9,500 be recommended to council. Mr. Caldwell was not of the opinion the garbage could be properly collected for $9,500.

Peyton was called in again and reiterated he would want more money if twelve carts are to be used. If twelve carts are to be used. If twelve carts are used he doubted if the garbage could be properly gathered. Three carts would be necessary to call at every house on the Island, daily, A wagon and one cart would cover the Island satisfactorily. He had collected garbage on the Island last summer and had but one cart; the work was not done satisfactory; and could not get all over the Island once in two days. With two carts he could keep the Island clean.

Regarding the present contractor he knew what he was getting, $9,200 for two years. From what he could see Clark could have made money if he had kept his men "agoin'." When a place would be cleaned up he would lay his men off temporarily. In his opinion the men ought never to have been laid the men ought never to have been laid off. He had often reported garbage not collected, but Clark even then would lay him off. At no time was the Island property cleaned under Clark's reign; not even in July and Clark knew the ordinance was not being complied with. He supposed it was a matter of "DOLLARS AND CENTS to him," and was of the opinion he could do the work all over the city satis factorily for $0,200 for the two years.

Mr. Warneke wanted to know what was being considered; Clark's doings last year or Payton's bid.

Mr. Richards replied that the committee should know how Clark fulfilled his contract. As to whether Clark made money out of his contract, he did not know.

Finally Peyton said he would not ac-cent the contract at his bld it he had to put on twelve carts, and he retired, after which Mr. Farrell again moved after which Mr. Farrell again moved Payton be given the contract. The chairman declined to entertain the motion as the man declined to take the contract under the conditions. Mr. Farrell wanted to know what guarantee there is that only carts will be used. The chairman replied that the resolution for twelve carts must be lived up to. Other members of the committee took the same position.

"What difference does it make if the

"What difference does it make it the back yards are kept clean?" remarked Colonel Farrell.

It was finally decided to have the other bidders brought in and see on what basis the bids were made.

J. C. McCracken based his bid on the advertisements, twelve carts in the four summer months. To Mr. Farrell he said he could get over all the wards twice a week, before and after the four hot months, with six carts.

months, with six carts.

Thomas Coffey, who bid $12,480, was next interviewed. He calculated to use twelve carts during the four hot months, and fulfil the conditions of the ordinance. He had not proposed to put on carts.

carts.

When Cofley left Mr. Richards remarked that no progress seemed to have been made, but John Carney, a $15,000 bidder, was called, and understood that both wagons and carts were to be used. He had figured to do the work better than "any mon that walls the streets of Wheeling." When his horses passed up Market street "half the street will be out a' lookin' at 'em, and I expect to have a buggy and see the work is done roight. It will be the purtiest job you ever see." He also stated that he would be at the bottom of the hill when the drivers least expected. He was willing to put the carts on if necessary. With a concluding remark about his "pretty crowd of horses" Carney departed.

James Conrod, who bid at $12,800, understood wagons and carts were to be used. According to him, "two horses will walk faster than one." He had handed garbage, and wagons in some parts of the city, he said, give better service than carts. He claimed when he was fined before it was not through his fault.

"Well, gentlemen, what are you gowhen Cofley left Mr. Richards remendation.

Mr. Warneke moved that William Carney's bid of $13,000 be recommended for approval. The chairman was doubtful if a high bidder could be recommended. Mr. Richards amended by suggesting the recommendation of Charles Backer, whose bid was $12,100.

Mr. Richards said the reason he did not move to recommend the tree bids of the

Mr. Hichards said the reason he did not move to recommend the two bids of the McCrackens for recommendations was the general opinion held that the work cannot be done for $10,000 or less.

Finally the Richards amendment that the contract be recommended to be given to Becker at $12,100 was put and was lost, Messrs. Richards and Deiters voting for Becker and the other four members against.

Deiters voting for Beezer and the other lour members against.

Mr. Warneke's motion to recommend the Carney bid was then put, Messrs. Farrell, Warneke and Caldwell voting in the affirmativo and Messrs. Richards, Israel and beiters in the negative. The motion was declared lost.

A vote was next taken on J. W. Mc-Cracken's bid of $9,994.94 and resulted in a defeat; three to four.

Mr. Deiters then moved Mr. Coffey's bid of $12,480 be recommended, but Mr. Richards amended by naming William Carney, and the latter was named.
